Taking the Pulse: Gauging the Attitudes of China's Gen Y

Featuring:

Victor Yuan

CEO of Horizon Research

The Committee of 100 will be presenting a luncheon program on April 25, 2007 titled Taking the Pulse: Gauging the Attitudes of China's Gen Y. The program will feature Victor Yuan - CEO of Horizon Research, the leading Chinese opinion research company. With offices in five cities in China, Horizon has become a renowned professional research and consultancy firm, serving both local and global enterprises during China's transition from a planned economy to a market economy. Mr. Yuan's research spans a broad range of industries and associations interested in enhancing their understanding of Chinese markets and professional services or establishing a presence in China. This discussion will focus on Mr. Yuan's research on attitudes of the Chinese youth towards China, the U.S., and U.S.-China policy.

About the Committee of 100

The Committee of 100 is a non-partisan and non-profit 501(c)(3) organization comprised of distinguished American citizens of ethnic Chinese descent who are the direct beneficiaries of the opportunities, equality, and civil rights provided by America's diverse democracy. Through the Committee, its members contribute to America's dynamic culture and robust economy by helping to build constructive relations between the U.S. and China that serve U.S. national interests and by promoting the full participation of Chinese Americans in all facets of American life. Among the Committee's efforts, its Public Education Initiative promotes mutual education and facilitates linkages between Chinese and American people as well as the leaders of the two countries.
